"Where Do We Go from Here?"
There is still a lot of uncertainty, but making the world a better place
Every day,
is important for the whole world.
It's not yet clear who's winning,
but who was counting?

This is some crazy
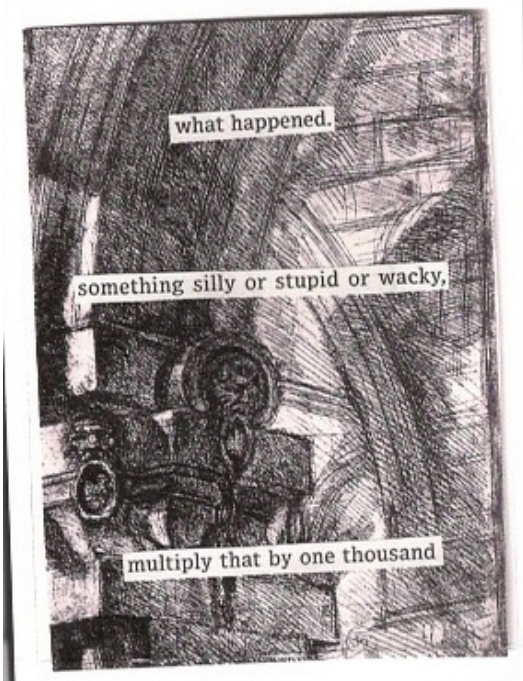
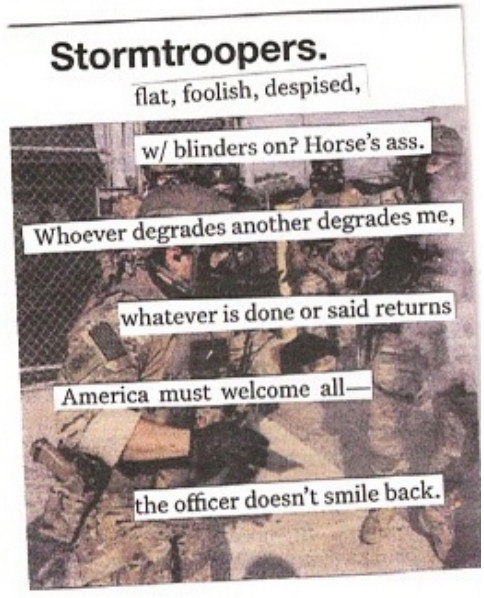
shit.
unnecessary shit
Because no one cared.
I walked home in a
daze, my mind
flooded with questions.
HOW did EVERYTHING
TURN
TO SH*T
dumb ass questions.
I would always ask
Why, why,
why?
why



what happened.
something silly or stupid or wacky,
multiply that by one thousand



Stormtroopers.
flat, foolish, despised,
w/ blinders on? Horse's ass.
Whoever degrades another degrades me,
whatever is done or said returns
America must welcome all—
the officer doesn't smile back.

To you
war or peace
are of no concern.
It will all come to pass
Who can be certain
—in war or in peace?
what are
reasonable
opinions
against iron and steel?

cry, 'Peace!
Peace!'—but
there is no peace.

"carrying on
the fight which
had been started
at the bridge."

"I just don't trust Donald Trump to live up to his promises,"
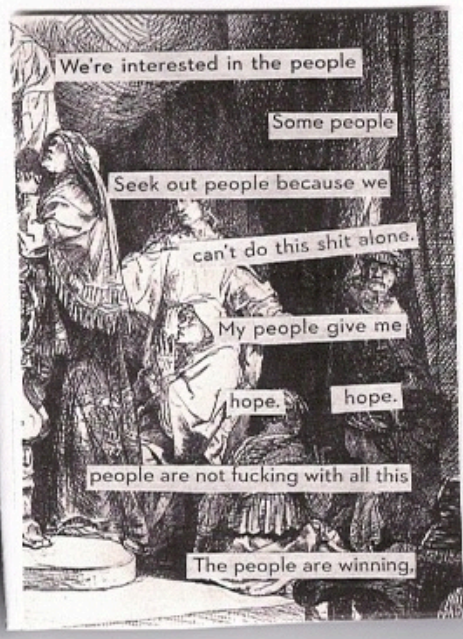
he had no use for that person.
We're seeing more people
being detained



We're interested in the people
Some people Seek out people because we can't do this shit alone.
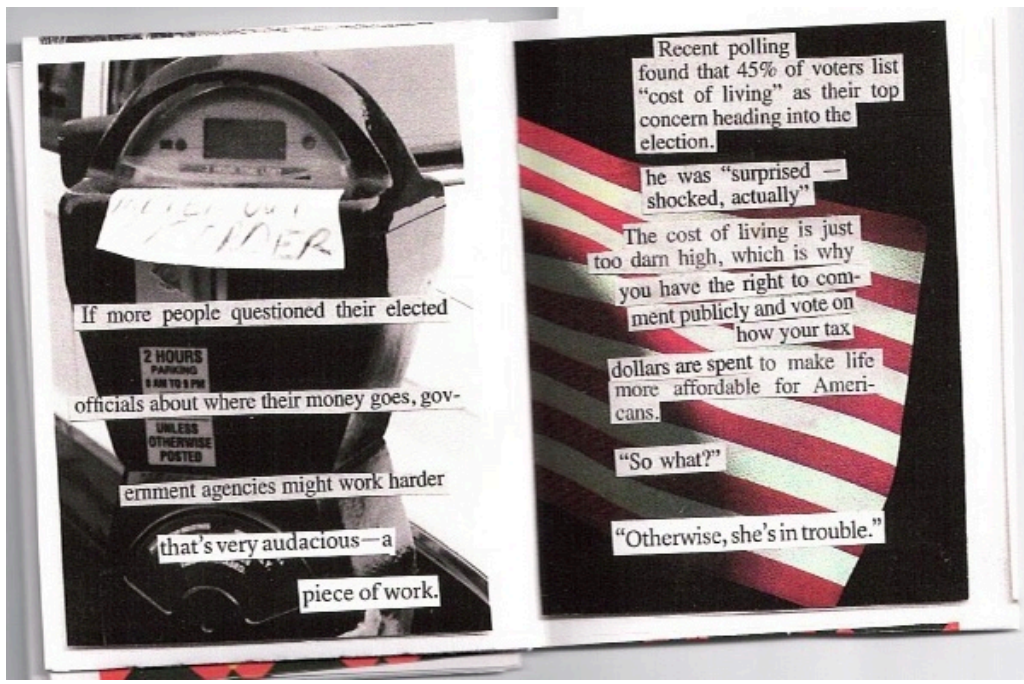
My people give me
hope.
hope.
people are not fucking with all this
The people are winning.



If more people questioned their elected
2 HOURS
officials about where their money goes, gov-
UNLESS OTHERWISE POSTED
ernment agencies might work harder
that's very audacious—a piece of work.
Recent polling found that 45% of voters list "cost of living" as their top concern heading into the election.
he was "surprised — shocked, actually"
The cost of living is just too darn high, which is why you have the right to comment publicly and vote on how your tax dollars are spent to make life more affordable for Americans.
"So what?"
"Otherwise, she's in trouble."

Barn's burnt down
Now
I can see the moon
